

Instructional Design Services

Instructional Design Services (IDS) serves the faculty of SDSU and fulfills many roles throughout the decades of its operation. Firm commitment to support, development, and service has driven IDS to follow a vision. This desire for excellence leads to innovation and leadership.

The goal of IDS is to support the instructional, research, institutional, and service missions of the University.

Through the promotion of contemporary, cutting edge technologies, IDS provides students, faculty, and staff universal access and guidance to worldwide electronic resources. Development and access to institutionally developed instructional and informational resources help poise SDSU to be a leader in education.
